PNG AIC WILL HOST THE NINTH ASIA PACIFIC – ACCIDENT INVESTIGATION GROUP (APAC-AIG) MEETING IN 2021.

The Chief Commissioner of the PNG Accident Investigation Commission (AIC), Mr. Hubert Namani today announced that PNG will host the Ninth Asia Pacific – Accident Investigation Group (APAC-AIG) Annual Meeting, in Port Moresby, in 2021.

The APAC-AIG was established under the Regional Aviation Safety Group – Asia Pacific (RASG-APAC), to assist the States of the Region in the development and improvement of independent no-blame accident and incident investigation.

The International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO) report emanating from the 56th Conference of Directors General of Civil Aviation Asia and Pacific Region held in Kathmandu, Nepal in August 2019, stated

“...out of all the 14 PSIDS (Pacific Small Island Developing States), only Papua New Guinea has established an independent authority for the investigation of aircraft accidents and serious incidents.”

Mr. Namani explained “ICAO has recognised that the capabilities of the PNG AIC for conducting independent no-blame accident and serious incident investigation have significantly improved over the last 3 years, and was clearly demonstrated in the two 2018 major accident investigations conducted for Pacific States under full delegation to the PNG AIC; the Boeing 737 at Chuuk, Federated States of Micronesia (FSM), and the ATR 72-500 at Port Vila, Republic of Vanuatu.

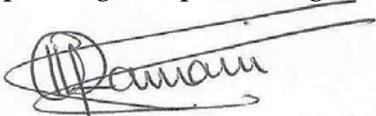

“These achievements have led Pacific Island States to look to PNG as a State in which safety is paramount and is recognised for excellence, integrity and professionalism in accident and incident investigation.”

In this context, the APAC-AIG Committee Chairman invited the AIC to host the Ninth APAC-AIG Annual Meeting in Port Moresby in 2021.

Mr. Namani said “In accepting the invitation to host the Ninth APAC-AIG Annual Meeting, the AIC Board has embraced this outstanding opportunity for the AIC to not only support and have a key role in this important Regional accident investigation activity, but also to encourage the Pacific Island States to become actively involved in a Regional cooperative framework and to participate in AIG-related activities in the Region.

“This also reinforces the AIC’s agreements to provide accident investigation support to FSM, Solomon Islands, Kiribati, Tonga, Samoa, Vanuatu, and Fiji.

“Holding the Ninth APAC-AIG Annual Meeting in Port Moresby will also showcase the AIC to the Asia Pacific States and be a clear demonstration of the PNG Government’s support for improving and promoting aviation safety, not only in PNG, but throughout the Region.”
